

Title: The Breve Panther

By: KeeshawWabitt

Long ago in a beautiful Amazon lived a young panther named Bagera. One day as he plodded the canopy a mean voice triggered his ears, "Hey look its Bagera the black-furred beast"! called Cragger Crocodile, "Ah my feathers look better than that" snapped Mary Macaw, "My scales can look better to", hissed Parry Python, But Bagera just ignored and walked along the canopy. "Why does everybody teases me of my black fur"?! roared Bagera.

A few days later hunters came to the amazon to hunt the animals. All the animals scattered in fear. All escaped except Cragger because his kind couldn't run fast. As soon as the hunters were ready to shoot him without thinking twice Bagera jumped out his hiding place, and withou mighty rovar the hunters ran out of sight without looking back. All the animals ^{reacted} cheer for Bagera of what has done. Thank you for saving me Cragger said happily. You are very welcome said Bagera proudly. Sorry for teasing you said Mary feeling sorry. You are very special, said Perry. Now to this day the Black panther still has his fur but always well respected.